NO OFFENSE TO ANY NATION IN HERO'S FLIGHT

Lindbergh's Triumph One of Few Spectacular Achievements of Peace
MET ALL TESTS ABROAD
Reception of Flier Tribute to Skill as Aviator and to Americanism

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — So extraordinary is the tribute to Charles Lindbergh that it may be said to be incomparably the greatest given to a single man at the national capital in Washington history.

Not alone the formality of honors of the president of the United States and representatives of foreign governments, but the informality of spontaneous enthusiasm from hundreds of thousands of people combine to make the occasion unique in the annals of hero worship.

Everybody is trying to analyze the underlying currents which have transformed a more or less phlegmatic community like Washington into an excited mass of cheering people. Could it be that Lindbergh faced death alone? Yet many heroes have done the same thing in the rescue of peace or in the brave exploits of war.

Could it be that Lindbergh was young and modest? But there have been other heroes of youth with equal modesty. Distinguished service crosses and medals have been bestowed on many men in the present generation and there have been great and impressive tributes such as the ceremony at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington five years ago.

DEED GAVE NO OFFENSE
The answer, if it indeed be found, lies in the fact that the deed which Lindbergh accomplished gave no offense to any individual or nation and was not at the expense of another mother's son. In the last analysis it was the world's son feat which was understandable to young and old and to people of all countries throughout the civilized world. It was not merely the hazard of the adventure but the confidence which Lindbergh had in himself and in his motor, that gave him the whole world to the possibilities of the airplane, which has given him a place in history bigger than the confines of his own country. For few Americans have been heroes across the seas as well as at home. It is a rare distinction for a boy to have won the world's recognition given the young hero here is as much a tribute to his skill and daring as an aviator as it is to his splendid Americanism as he stood the test of foreign eyes in an hour of glory. Peace, unlike war, furnishes few spectacular occasions for world wide recognition. Lindbergh's flight, however, was one of those occasions — he is a hero of international good will and peace.

STRANGLER KILLS GIRL AND WOMAN IN CANADA

Winnipeg, Man. — (AP) — "A stranger" who killed women in Pacific coast states of the United States Monday was regarded by police as responsible for the killing of a 27-year-old married woman and a 14-year-old school girl here.

Lola Cowan, missing from her home since last Thursday, was found strangled in a rooming house Sunday. The proprietor told police a man who gave the name of Woodcock had rented the room six days ago. He disappeared two days ago.

Last Friday the body of Mrs. Emily Patterson was found under a bed in a rooming house. Similarity of circumstances surrounding the killings, police said, indicated both crimes were committed by one person.

JAPS WANT EQUALITY WITH UNITED STATES IN STRENGTH OF NAVY

Tokio — (AP) — The Associated Press is informed from an authoritative source that Japan's delegation to the Geneva naval conference is instructed to propose an equal ratio, with a maximum limit for auxiliary vessels. The contention is that Japan is theoretically entitled to have even more cruisers and other auxiliaries than America, owing to her greater necessity of protecting trade routes.

The Japanese delegation, it is understood, will declare that Japan does not intend to build the maximum, but that what is wanted is "liberty to build" equally with the other powers.

SIX PERSONS DROWN IN MINNESOTA LAKE

Two Saved When Boat Capsizes — Second Drowning Tragedy in State in Week

St. Paul — (AP) — The second drowning tragedy in Minnesota within a week Sunday claimed the lives of six St. Paul residents who were plunged into Forest lake, 30 miles north of here when their rowboat capsized.

The deaths brought the total drownings to 12 since last Thursday when six other persons lost their lives during a storm on Mille lakes lake, near Garrison, 125 miles north of St. Paul. Those drowned Sunday were: Haakon Eliassen, 35, Peter, 8, his son; Olga, his daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Hanson, and Ann, 2, their daughter. Mrs. Eliassen and her son, Herman, 12, were the only ones of the party of eight who were rescued.

The Hansons and the Eliassens had rented a boat at the Mille lakes landing about 3 1/2 miles southeast of the town of Forest Lake, on a part of Forest lake known as Third lake. They were fishing about 1,000 feet from shore when the accident occurred.

Herman Eliassen was trying to pull up the anchor when another member of the party rose up to assist him. The over-laden boat tipped over as they tugged at the rope, and all the occupants were thrown into the water.

Gainesville, Ga. — (AP) — Brutally beaten by a hooded band early Sunday, Mrs. Ansley Bowers of Toccoa, Stephens-co was in a hospital here Monday for treatment of "serious injuries." Details of the flogging reported here were meagre.

Information was that Mrs. Bowers and her son, Lloyd, were taken from their home almost in the center of Toccoa by a band of hooded men early Sunday, placed in automobiles and driven to a lonely spot on a road six miles out of Toccoa. Arriving there, Mrs. Bowers and her son were floored and the band, said to number 12 men, departed, leaving the women unconscious and the son hardly able to move. The son went for aid and he and his mother were taken to Toccoa and placed under the care of physicians.

"MARRYING PARSON" IS HELD FOR FRAUD

Kenosha Is Arrested in Chicago for Passing Fraudulent Checks

Chicago — (AP) — Kenosha's "marrying parson," James Morrison Darnell, who was sentenced by Federal Judge E. A. Geiger to three years in Leavenworth prison, is in trouble again. He is held in the South Chicago police station on a charge of passing fraudulent checks. The charge was preferred by R. R. O'Neal, Chicago, and police said investigation had shown that Darnell left a trail of unpaid bills and checks said to be worthless in a tour of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. When arrested Darnell was living with a fourth wife, Mildred Wood of Elgin, Ill., and two children.

Darnell, who was expelled by the Baptist conference in 1909, got into trouble with the federal government while pastor of a church at Kenosha. He had been at Oatwanna, Minn., where he was pastor of an Unitarian church and lived with a woman who later proved to be Ethel Springer, to whom he had not been married. The woman left him and Darnell showed a divorce decree which later was found to be fraudulent.

He courted Ruth Soper of Oatwanna, and lived with her as his wife. The Rev. William P. Leek of Fond du Lac, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, for his contribution to the religious progress of his denomination and state.

Degrees were conferred upon the following students:
Master of arts—Alvin Rabehl, Appleton.
Bachelor of Music—Hudson Bacon, Appleton; Helen Haertel, Neenah; Margaret Hendrickson, Columbus; Mildred Ford, Appleton; Elbert Smith, Appleton; Gladys Jonte, Green Bay.

WORLD WAR VET HANGS SELF IN BARN ON FARM

Stoughton — (AP) — Curiosity that prompted Alexander Lundie, an Aberdeen Scot to look into an abandoned barn on the Lundie farm Sunday cleared up the mystery of the disappearance two weeks ago of Clayton Lundie. They found the body hanging by a rope from the rafters.

Lundie, 29, a veteran of the world war, disappeared from the Lundie home in Stoughton two weeks ago and it was believed he had gone to Milwaukee or some other city in search of employment. He had been employed in the Smith Steel works, Milwaukee during the winter.

Members of his family expressed belief that he had killed himself in a moment of despondency. He leaves his mother and three brothers, Alexander, Julian and Ira. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the farm home.

Motor Trouble Delays U. S. Airmen In Berlin

Berlin — (AP) — Trouble with the valve mechanism of the trans-Atlantic plane Columbia has brought disappointment to the people of Munich and Vienna. For Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine had to postpone their flights to these places for several days until repairs can be made. They were offered special planes by the German Aerial League, but preferred to wait so as to carry out their original intention of flying in the machine which carried them across the Atlantic from New York to Germany. The flight to Munich was to have taken place Sunday.

After a 2,000 mile flight which they were almost constantly feted and entertained, Chamberlin and Levine said goodbye to the American embassy and left Berlin Sunday night for Germany's well known watering resort, Baden-Baden, where they are to rest for several days. They are to meet their wives, now on the way from New York, at Bromerhaven, June 17, after which the party will come to Berlin and spend a day here. Then it is expected their program of European flights will be resumed.

Mr. Levine had made a provisional promise to Thea Rasche, Germany's woman pilot, to consider providing her with a Bellanca similar to the Columbia to enable her to try a flight across the ocean from Berlin to New York. He is anxious to see her perform in the air and it is likely an exhibition will be arranged when he returns to Berlin.

Chamberlin and Levine were given an enthusiastic reception by a crowd of about 2,000 people at the Konigsplatz station upon their arrival.

The burgomaster and members of the municipal council escorted the trans-Atlantic fliers to their hotel, where there was another demonstration and a frantic rush for autographs. The airmen enjoyed their first railway journey in Europe and said the continental sleeping cars were preferable to those at home.

Royalist Chief Yields To French Cops In Siege

Paris — (AP) — After three days of entrenched defiance of the authorities Leon Daudet, royalist leader under sentence for libeling a taxicab driver in connection with death of his son Philippe several years ago, surrendered to the army of policemen and firemen surrounding the building at 735 Monday morning. He had been holding out against the authorities from behind a barred wire screen set up about the office of his newspaper L'Action Francaise.

M. Daudet declared he did not wish to start a civil war and ended with the words: "Long live France." He sent his protesting troops out of the building in military columns and then he and his newspaper manager and companion, M. Delest, walked out like the commanders of an honorably defeated army and entered a police automobile to be taken to the station.

Daudet entrusted himself in the newspaper office Thursday night formally declared his legal home and had barred wire entanglements put up to protect the entrances. In relays hundreds of royalists with canes guarded the doors. There were riots Saturday afternoon and Sunday night. Several score policemen being badly beaten in scurrilous with the crowds that were almost constantly before the building.

BELIEVE WISCONSIN PROF DIED MARTYR TO CHEMISTRY STUDY

Nationally Known Chemist Dies at Wisconsin General Hospital, Madison

Madison — (AP) — Prof. Victor Lenher, 54, nationally known chemist and for 27 years connected with the University of Wisconsin, died Sunday at the Wisconsin General hospital.

Physicians and chemists at the university were unable to definitely diagnose the illness which caused professor Lenher's death, but the possibility that he died a martyr to science, through selection poisoning, was expressed. He had made extensive research into the properties of selenium, a toxic member of the sulphur group of chemicals.

He was born in Belmont, Iowa, in 1873, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1899. Later joined the chemistry staff at Columbia university, but remained only two years before coming to Wisconsin. During the war his scientific ability was directed toward the chemical warfare service.

Professor Lenher was a member of numerous scientific and honorary societies including the Washington Academy of Sciences, Franklin Institute, American Chemical society, and the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences. Arrangements for funeral services have not been completed. The widow and two sons survive.

SHORT FLIGHTS WITH 'LINDY'

By the Associated Press
William B. Francisco of Jersey City, got all rigged up to lead the Lindbergh parade Monday, but he didn't mean to lead it by as much as the police insisted on, which was by several hours. Francisco drew up at the battery about 9 o'clock in an automobile which would have made Joseph's ear look colorless and which had an airplane propeller whirling merrily out in front. "Where's Grover Whalen?" Chairman of the reception committee 1 asked police as he alighted. "I'm going to be in the parade."

"You are," the police agreed, "and you start right now."

It was an argument but the police won. Francisco agreed to go away from there.

The engine, which was not a Wright whirling, was persuaded to run and Francisco headed for a non-stop solo lap to the Bronx with the crowd cheering his individual parade.

Four lynch-hounds of the noted aviator from Little Falls, Minn., were at the Waldorf Astoria hotel Monday wondering how they would witness the procession. They were A. L. Grimes, C. L. Lonsley, J. S. Lewis and Kenneth L. Martin.

They motored from Washington arriving fatigued. They were lumbering chutes Grimes and Martin were school mates of the flier.

Although not aware of any arrangements, they thought that since they had been "recoiled" somewhere for them, but had no idea as to the location.

LINDBERGH'S FIRST CARE IS FOR PLANE ON MAKING LANDING

Mitchell Field, N. Y. — (AP) — Colonel Lindbergh's first and last words upon landing here Monday concerned the Curtiss H-1 he flew from Washington.

The flier made the passage entirely on gasoline from the auxiliary tank, he told Captain H. M. McClelland, adjutant, the gasoline having refused to flow from the main tank a few minutes after taking off from the capital.

"Be sure and look over the gas tank of that Curtiss," he said to Captain McClelland. He added a flier should not use the plane until that was done.

"Get your life, we will Colonel!" shouted Captain McClelland, as the Amphibian shot down the course.

All five are under sentence of death for the murder of a deputy warden of the penitentiary.

The five, Charles Duschowsky, Walter Stalesky, Charles Shader, Gregorio Rizzo and Roberto Torrez, were held in the county jail awaiting a supreme court opinion on their application for a new trial.

They were seized soon after their break, but guards were forced to battle them with their weapons. MAYOR TELLS FLIER HE WON NEW YORK CITY

Blase Gotham Citizens Go Wild as Lindbergh Arrives from Capital
GUNS SALUTE ON ARRIVAL
Police Have Difficulty in Keeping Order Among Immense Crowds

New York — (AP) — The gold medal of Le Lyceum Societe des Femmes de France of New York, previous award only to two men—Calvin Coolidge and President Doumergue — will be presented Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The society has elected Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the aviator, an honorary member of the organization.

BULLETIN
New York — (AP) — Commander Richard E. Byrd who accompanied Colonel Lindbergh from Washington as one of the pilots of an escort group of planes, Monday told the Associated Press, that at the first break of good weather "after Lindbergh's reception is over in New York," he would set out for Paris in his tri-motored plane, the America.

After a greeting from 50,000 throats at the battery that shook the city and a triumphal march up Broadway, through packed acclaiming crowds and a paper storm from the windows, the young flier alighted at the city hall at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

While waiting for Lindbergh to arrive, (he estimated $50,000 per hour at the battery were ordered enough, but when he came their emotions broke all bounds.

CROWD CLOSES IN
Lindbergh stepped into a waiting automobile and it took its place in the parade that had been steadily filing out of Battery place for the previous three-quarters of an hour. The car had gone barely 75 feet when the crowd began closing in front. For a moment it seemed that the parade would be halted.

As the flier was smiling and waving acknowledgment of the tremendous acclaim being accorded him the chauffeur seeing progress endangered suddenly put on speed. So sudden was the advance that Lindbergh was taken unawares and huffed backward against the seat. His head and shoulders were hanging over the back of the tonneau when Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's committee of welcome caught him by the legs and steadied him. Lindbergh quickly regained his composure and waved laughingly at the crowd as he drove on.

FLIER IS UNHURT
As it seemed that Lindbergh was about to be thrown to the street there was a momentary deadly silence. There was a concerted gasp of "oh." The cheering again broke out louder than before when he was seen that he was unhurt.

As the Lindbergh car neared city hall a great waterfall of confetti mingled with streams of ticker tape was poured on it from the top of the Woolworth tower and settled almost knee-deep over the already paper whitened street.

After the near accident at the battery Lindbergh resumed a standing position and rode so to city hall bowing and waving as he passed along.

At the city hall, Lindbergh was presented with a scroll. After reading the scroll, Mayor Walker addressed Lindbergh.

MAYOR WALKER'S SPEECH
"Let me dispense with any unnecessary function," he said, "by telling you that if you have prepared yourself with any letters of introduction to New York they are not necessary."

"You are a great grammarian, you have given added definition to the word 'we.' We are familiar with the editorial 'we' but not until you arrived in Paris were we aware of the aeronautical 'we.' You have given to the world a flying pronoun."

"That was a vindication of the courage and the hopes of Nunces and Coll, who live now only in the memory of the peoples of the world."

"New York city is yours. I don't give it to you. You won it. I congratulate you and welcome you into the world city that you may look the world in the face."

WELCOME IS GREATEST
In reply Lindbergh said that his New York reception was greater than those of Paris, Brussels, London and Washington "all put together."

"After one half hour at Le Bourget, I didn't believe any one in New York would have the slightest idea of the reception given us. And again at Brussels and also at London."

As the Mayor hove in sight the crowds at the Battery burst into such a roar of cheering as that famous well coming ground had probably never heard before. The scene on the Battery was the most dramatic of the day and the crowd surged forward toward the plane as though every member

SOUL CHALLENGE IS FIRST IN LIFE

Reverend U. H. Lumpkin, Madison, Urges Graduates to Drive on

All progress is made from faith to faith. This was the theme of the baccalaureate sermon preached to Lawrence college seniors by the Rev. Henry Hope Lumpkin, rector of Grace Episcopal church of Madison, Sunday morning at Lawrence Memorial chapel. He traced accomplishment through human progress, education, law, science, character and religion. All these have been developed step by step from "faith to glory," and from "faith to faith," he said.

Reverend Lumpkin gave a challenge of life to the graduating class and urged them to drive on and on, in his battle. Bloodshed has been too often the mode of settling disputes in this battle in the past, he pointed out. That man would come to realize there were no solutions, the speaker hoped. The brotherhood of humanity is the aim for the future which will produce a "nobler destiny and a nobler way of shaping its ends."

The challenge to the soul is the first of the challenges in the battle of life. This challenge will develop character and will give a greater love for "the adventure of life," he believed.

The Rev. Richard Evans, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, gave the invocation, and the Rev. J. A. Holmes of the First Methodist church, the benediction. Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president, read the scripture. A quartet consisting of Mrs. Marion Hutchinson, McCredy, Miss Doris Efflin, Carl McKee and George Nixon sang.

The offerings will be used to help defray the expense of the college students at the young people's religious conference at Green Lake.

James, William and Lawrence Guffey, triplets of McKeesport, Pa., were graduated together from the McKeesport high school in 1923 and entered the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Now, at 22 years old they are completing their college work in the same class.

2 MILLION DRIVERS WILL GET LICENSES TO RUN AUTOMOBILES

Badger Law Won't Refuse Licenses to Autoists Over 16 Years of Age

Madison—Plans for the enforcement of the state automobile drivers' license law, enacted at the present session of the legislature, are being laid by the secretary of state with an estimate of nearly 2,000,000 persons will come under the new licensing provision. The provisions go into effect Jan. 1.

Application forms for the drivers' licenses will be simple and licenses to drive cars will be denied only to persons under 16 and to those obviously possessing physical defects that would seriously handicap them in automobile operation. The main feature of the law is expected to be greater ease in preventing persons from driving automobiles after having been convicted of offenses such as driving while intoxicated or for reckless driving.

WON'T INQUIRE INTO HABITS

The Wisconsin law is not aimed to inquire into the personal habits of applicants like the New Hampshire law, which requires every applicant for a driver's license to declare himself as to whether he uses intoxicating liquor.

It still is uncertain just how the legislature is going to leave the business of automobile regulation. Wisconsin started out with requiring a simple automobile license, then passed a complicated graduated weight tax, and at the last session added a requirement that car owners must obtain a certificate of ownership for their machines. The growth in automobile work of state's office with a separate building now devoted solely to house the automobile division. The drivers' license law means more work and a further extension of the office.

COLLECT GASOLINE TAX

Automobile work also has added to the trouble of other state departments. The state treasurer now has the duty of collecting gasoline taxes, the oil inspection department is in charge of inspecting gasoline, the industrial commission is in charge of regulating automobile lights, the highway commission has limited power in the control of automobile bus operation.

The senate has given final passage to the Casperson bill, which would create a new department, headed by an automobile director, which would handle all functions that have to do with automobiles or auto fuel. This bill has not been given a test vote in the assembly.

SCHOLAR LEADERS ARE NEEDED TODAY

Question Is Discussed at Open Meeting of Phi Beta Kappa Society

Great advantages offered to man to day and the need of leadership by scholars were discussed by Dr. Guy Stanton Ford, dean of the graduate school at the University of Minnesota, at the open meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa scholastic society, Saturday morning at Peabody hall.

Remembrance of progress has been made in science but it is the application of this progress that is of greatest importance, he asserted. Human progress must keep step with mechanical progress, and it is to the scholars that the world must look for the leadership in this application. Man must keep up with the developments of his age, Dr. Ford said.

The speaker cited some of the great progresses in science and urged the responsibility of the intelligentsia to wisely plan their use.

Dr. Louis C. Baker, professor of romance languages at the college, was elected president of the Lawrence chapter of the society at the business meeting Friday evening. Prof. J. H. Griffiths will be vice-president, Miss Lucille Welty, secretary, and Miss Jessie M. Pate, treasurer.

A memorial to Dr. Henry Colman, graduate and trustee of the college and member of the society, was read by Mrs. W. S. Naylor. Dr. Colman died in May.

EXPERTS PLANNING CALIFORNIA CITY

Prof. L. S. Smith, of the University of Wisconsin, Working on Project

Madison—(AP)—A citizen and a former citizen of Wisconsin are making a city.

Prof. L. S. Smith, city planning expert at the University of Wisconsin, will help with the mechanical formation of the city of San Clemente, Calif. Ole Hanson, former Racine man, is promoter of the city.

Prof. Smith will embody his theories of city planning this summer in development of the new city, rising from the raw coast land in Los Angeles county.

Promoter Hanson is the former mayor of Seattle, Wash. San Clemente fronts on the Pacific ocean for five miles along the concrete highway between Los Angeles and San Diego.

The Wisconsin professor has already laid out one section of the town site. It is expected that three years will be required to complete the plans for the new city.

The plan, as completed so far, ordinarily considered liabilities by real estate promoters. Prof. Smith develops these irregularities into small parks in the center of residential blocks, conforming to one canon of his city-planning creed—adequate provision for recreation.

"The modern city must be planned to house its inhabitants efficiently for 24 hours a day," the Badger expert explains. "It must have good housing for work, for play, and for home life."

Prof. Smith will leave Madison in time to arrive in Los Angeles on June 15 when he is to give an illustrated lecture, "Paris, The Most Beautiful City in the World" before the City planning association of Los Angeles.

Prof. Smith has drawn city plans and zoning ordinances for Appleton, Oshkosh, and Wauskegan in Wisconsin.

O'Brien Boy Thin and Pale

In a Little Over Two Months Gained Eleven Pounds

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing and wise parents are buying McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy.

The son of George G. O'Brien of Mahwah, N. J., was thin and pale and did not get enough nourishment from his food. In a little over two months, he gained eleven and one-half pounds, and feel and looks one hundred per cent better.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not supremely satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—50 tablets—60 cents at any druggist in America. Thousands of boxes sold daily.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS TO BE MADE IN CITY SCHOOLS THIS SUMMER

Board of Education Adopts Program for Work During Vacation

The W. S. Patterson Co. as low bidder, was awarded the contract for installing a heating system at Lincoln school by the board of education at the regular meeting. The system will include new boilers, vacuum pump, pipe system, traps, specialties and radiators. The original bids included the Johnson system of temperature control and ventilating system but this was omitted because of the additional expense.

The complete bid of the Patterson company was $11,564 and when the deductions were made the final bid was $5,064. Wenzel Brothers, Inc., was the second low bidder with $11,063 complete and $3,335 final. John A. Engel Co., was third.

A special meeting of the board was held in the afternoon to open the bids and discuss them. Interviews were held with representatives of each company. The contracts were awarded in the evening.

ORDER REPAIRS

Repairs and improvements on the school buildings and grounds were reported by the maintenance committee and their recommendations were accepted by the board. Contracts will be awarded at a later meeting.

Minor repairs will be made Appleton high school, such as painting where it is needed. The coal bin will be drained at the Roosevelt junior high school, a storage room for janitor's supplies will be built at the building which was not equipped with a storage room when it was built. Walls of the building will be painted. When the committee is convinced that leakage from the downspouts has been entirely stopped, the assembly room will be decorated, it was decided.

Storage room will be built at the Wilson junior high school as that not equipped with storage facilities. Classrooms which have not been equipped with a double floor will be built. Rooms adjoining the McKinley school will be the principal work. There has been water in the boiler room and a back water trap in the McKinley sewer will be built. Girl showers and dressing rooms will be installed at the school.

The heating plant at Lincoln school and the remodeling of the Washington school to make four new classrooms will be the principal improvements in the grade schools. Weather stripping will be installed in the windows of First ward school. While working on the Washington school, the workmen discovered that only a single maple floor had been laid on the second floor of the building and accounted for the leaking through the first floor ceiling when the floors were cleared. The floor will be torn up and a double floor put down. The floors also will be leveled. This will mean an additional cost of $762.

The sidewalk on Franklin and Oneida streets beside the Lincoln school will be raised, it was voted. The walks are lower than the boulevard and the school grounds and are covered with water in the spring and after rains.

Outside bunnies will be installed at Lincoln, Franklin and Columbus school grounds. Fire gongs will be installed at the Columbus and Franklin schools. A cement floor will be laid in the Jefferson school basement. The building will be caulked and all rooms, halls and cloakrooms will be painted. The inside water pipes will be enlarged to two inches to conform with the outside pipes.

All school buildings will be thoroughly cleaned and necessary repairs made, the board stated.

The final contract was approved for the iron fireman at the Roosevelt school providing that the board would not take action until January 1928.

Use of rooms at Lincoln school, which will be vacated as class rooms on account of the doubling up of grades, was discussed. Two rooms will be left. One will be used as an art classroom as the art supervisor has not had a room. The other will be used by the two school nurses for physical examinations of children and as a waiting room for children who attended the dental clinic. Heretofore the children have waited in the halls and on the steps to the dental office. The present small office used by the two nurses, the art supervisor and the two speech teachers will be used as an office for the two music supervisors and the defective speech teacher.

The request of the inspector from the state department of public instruction to fit one of the cloakrooms as a model bedroom for the opportunity room work was granted. It is the aim of the department to train sub-normal girls in all types of housework. The bed for the room will be the only cost as the children will make the other furniture for the room.

ENGAGE NEW TEACHER
The resignation of Armin Gerhardt of Neenah, who has been teaching in the manual training department at the Wilson junior high school, was accepted and Frank Wilson, who taught there last year, will take his place. Mr. Gerhardt will go to Morgantown, W. Va., to attend school. Miss Frances Hilton of Antigo, was appointed to

Don't Duck! Comet Will Be 3,500,000 Miles Away

BY MILTON BRONNER
London.—Never mind making a will, putting on a life preserver, or hiding under the bedsheet when the Pons-Winnecke comet comes close to the earth June 29 next. Nothing is going to happen.

I get this straight from Pons-Winnecke's nurse, the distinguished astronomer, Dr. A. C. Crommelin. By "nurse" is not meant that Pons-Winnecke is washed, combed, fed and put to bed by Dr. Crommelin. He simply knows more about Pons-Winnecke than any other living astronomer.

GOT THE DOPE ON HALLEY'S
He is retiring from the Royal Greenwich Observatory after 36 years' continuous service as comet expert. He is the head of the comet section of the British Astronomical Association.

Seventeen years ago he achieved fame by mathematically working out the prediction that the mysterious Halley's comet would appear in our orbit on April 17, 1910. It actually appeared April 19. This gave Crommelin lasting renown in astronomical annals.

Pons-Winnecke is now in our orbit and there have been various rumors to the effect that there is dire danger to the earth.

CLOSETS: 3,500,000 MILES
"Stuff and nonsense," said Dr. Crommelin to me. "The comet will be closets to us on June 29 and even then it will be 3,500,000 miles away."

"The thing to remember about comets is that most times earth is between the sun and the comet, so that there is no chance of running into its tail. But even if we did run into and through its tail, the ordinary person would not be aware of it. The tail is made up of high tenuous, highly nebulous gas stretching for millions of miles."

"It is quite conceivable that if we hit a big comet square on its solid nucleus something more serious would happen. It's conceivable some people would be hit by meteorites and killed. "Even when we are closets to Pons-Winnecke on June 27, the comet will seem only a luminous wisp of cloud. Our moon is 240,000 miles away from the earth. Pons-Winnecke will be over 14 times a greater distance away—an enormous margin of safety."

THINKS THEM ERUPTIONS
"The real nature, origin and characteristics of comets still are matters of dispute. Personally, I think they are results of eruptions of matter from the planets around which they revolve. They presumably are shoals of meteorites and other solid substances. We don't know what the solids are. When these come near the sun, gases are released by the heat. These gases are mainly hydrogen, hydrocarbons and cyanogen, the latter of course being a poisonous gas. It is these gases that form the tail of the comet streaming behind."

SUN SINGS TAILS
"Each time a comet goes far away from the sun, it loses its tail, and gets a new one when it comes near the sun again. The comets which come frequently soon have no tails at all any more. Pons-Winnecke, which belongs to the groups of comets that revolve around Jupiter, makes its appearance in our heavens about every five and a half or six years. It was discovered by J. L. Pons in 1819 and rediscovered by Winnecke in 1858. Hence its name."

Most of the world's jade comes from Burma.

Women the world over seem to have been especially selected to bear the burden of pain and sickness of this world. They seem to have more patience and a greater capacity for suffering. Thousands of women right now, today, are patiently bearing their burden of suffering, without complaint and without a whisper. But they are wrong. No idea could be more mistaken. Every day some woman tells of her relief through Drego, the great herbal tonic introduced by the Drego Expert at Schilntz Bros. Drug Store.

Read what Mrs. Jennie Keddel, who lives on R. F. D. No. 6, this city says:

"Twelve years ago I had a nervous breakdown and since that time my system has been all shot to pieces. I couldn't stand to hear a sudden noise my nerves were so bad and my hands shook so I couldn't hold a spoon steady. I felt very weak especially in the knees which seemed hardly able to hold me up. Then, about four years ago, my stomach went back on me and since that time I suffered so with sourness, indigestion and gastritis I'd scarcely eat enough to keep a canary bird alive."

CHURCH ARRANGES SUMMER PROGRAMS

Congregational Churches
Prepare Vacation Services to Attract Members

EVANSTON, Wis.—(C)—Congregational churches of Wisconsin were urged today to frame programs for the summer vacation period that will attract persons of the community who are not away from home and re-attract those returning from their vacations.

The "Wisconsin Congregational Church Life," published here today declared that "It is probably true that the work of religious education has suffered more than any other phase of our task in planning the vacation in the modern church."

"Most churches," the booklet continues, "have one preaching service during the summer, although some close the church entirely for the month of August. An increasing number of our churches close the church school the first of July and do not open until September one, and some do not open until the middle of September."

"In every community, however great the wealth, there are a good many adults, young people and children who stay at home all summer. The church that knows its opportunity will do everything possible to furnish an attractive program for these during the vacation period. The difficulty in keeping up a program of religious education during the summer is found in securing enough teachers for the church school. The teachers themselves demand a vacation."

"The problem has been solved in some schools by paying three or four teachers to teach during the summer months. The amount of money required for this is not large and the results have fully warranted the expenditure. We urge our churches not to let the church school disband for the summer months and suggest that if it is necessary to pay teachers, it can be done generously, with the assurance that the returns will be commensurate with the expenditure."

The most highly-colored fruits grow in regions that have intensely bright sunlight.

Is Making Up For The Many Good Meals She Missed In The Past

Appleton lady tells how Drego ended stomach distress, built up her nervous system and brought back her strength.

MRS. JENNIE KEDDEL

"One day I decided to try Drego and the results have surely been wonderful. My stomach is now in such good condition I can eat anything without distress and am surely making up for the many good meals I missed in the past. My bowels are as regular as the clock, my nerves have been steadied, I sleep fine at nights and seem to have regained all my old-time strength and vigor. I'll also put on some much needed weight and am improving so rapidly that I'm afraid my old friends won't know me if Drego keeps on helping me like it has already."

Drego is being specially introduced by Schilntz Bros. Downtown Drug Store and sold by druggists every where.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Olive Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED
T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire department store owner, takes BILLY WEISS, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON from his store and places them in his home for one year, because he wants to help further ambitions each has expressed. Billy, who wants to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is serious. The others lie to enjoy his generosity.

Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMAINO, nephew of MISS MEADOWS, their hostess. She is harassed by the fear that he is "playing" both her and Winnie SHELTON.

Through everything, she loves CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living with Billy's mother in the poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night.

Unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up. Nyda and Winnie institute a series of intrigues to gain his affection. Billy loses interest in her violin and finally has a breakdown. T. Q. begins to question the wisdom of his philanthropic experiment when he finds that Nyda, for whom he has fitted a model kindergarten room, in order to help her with her work, is not interested and is careless and unkind with the children under her care.

Believing the girls need a change, he takes them to Europe for several months. Upon their return, they find the town in an upheaval over a Hindu fortune teller. All three girls are told amazingly intimate things by the strange man. RALPH TRUMAN, a friend, says he believes the Hindu has an accomplice. When the Hindu and Dal Romaine disappear simultaneously, Billy recalls Ralph's words and is vaguely troubled. He hears occasionally from Dal but his letters leave her unhappy. One night she passes Nyda's room and hears Nyda and a man quarreling.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVIII
When the calamity which Billy had feared did break with violence upon the Curtis household, she found that her sixth sense had played her false in only one particular—Winnie SHELTON was not hurt or involved in it in any unpleasant way. Her position was merely strengthened by her obvious innocence of any wrong-doing in that instance, at least.

Billy was to wonder many times after the whole ugly drama was over what she had not been acute enough to suspect far more than she had. What was going on in Nyda's tormented mind. For instance, why had her usually alert mind not registered the fact that Nyda Lomax had taken an acute but futile interest in the safe in the library?

Old T. Q. had made no effort to keep the girls from knowing about the safe and its contents, nor had he been even reasonably careful in working the combination in their presence. He had insisted that they keep their jewelry in the safe when they were not actually wearing it. The value of the entire collection did not exceed ten thousand dollars, but one night, when handing out their "gewgaws," as he called them, to the girls, he had taken a small chain bag from the safe and had shown them half a dozen large, unset diamonds.

"Guess I'm sorta superstitious about diamonds," he grinned. "I heard someone say when I was a half-grown boy that he'd rather have diamonds than money in the bank. I bought this first diamond with the first five hundred that the store really didn't need. During the last twenty years I've owned a good many diamonds, partly because I love the looks of 'em and the feel of 'em and partly because of that old superstition that they were the soundest investment. Once I had to sell all but this first one to tide my business over a bad year, but I've bought a stone every once in a while. Pretty things, ain't they?"

And later Billy wondered why she had not been alarmed at the look of greed in Nyda's eyes as they watched, with almost ferocious intensity, every turn and twist of T. Q.'s fingers as they worked the combination of the safe.

Later, when suspicion of the robbery of T. Q. Curtis' library safe fell upon herself, Billy could remember those things and wonder at her own stupidity. How easy she had been! How blindly she had played into Nyda's hands that night before the robbery!

Winnie was not at home that night. She was at the bedside of her father, who was ill with pneumonia. And because a doctor had sat all night by the desperately sick man's bedside, too, her abili was perfect.

Billy and Nyda had spent the evening at home. Nyda supposedly in bed all the time with a "raging" headache, according to the message she sent down to Mrs. Meadows and T. Q., at the dinner hour. After dinner Billy played her violin for the two old people, including the short, fat, somewhat little song, "To an Autumn Day."

Mrs. Meadows went away early, and the girl and the old man sat for an hour, talking first of inconsequential things, and, finally, of Clay Curtis.

"Mother says his symphony is almost finished. I told you he was writing a symphony called 'The Song of Toit' didn't I? Professor Navratil says he believes Clay will make a great success with it—not a financial success, but an artistic success. Clay has been to Chicago, mother says, and has heard the first two movements of it played by a symphony orchestra there, as a favor to him, of course."

"An artistic success is all right," T. Q. frowned to hide the light of pride in his stern gray eyes. "But how about a little financial success? Does the fool boy intend to work in a factory the rest of his life?"

Billy bristled instantly in defense of Clay, though her heart throbbed with a dull ache at the mention of his name. "If you took any interest in popular songs, Daddy Curtis, you'd know that Clay is already on the road to financial success. He wrote a sentimental little song—words and music, both—called 'Light o' Love,' that is being featured in a musical comedy in New York, and that everyone's singing and whistling and waiting to right now. He may make a fortune on it—one foolish little tune, but a tune that gets into your blood and haunts your dreams."

"A fortune out of a song?" T. Q. smiled wryly.

"Mother says Clay is shy about the song," Billy went on. "He despises that sort of music, is embarrassed when he hears his own song over the radio or on a phonograph. I'm awfully glad for Clay. He's worked like a slave, night and day—"

"I'm proud of him, too," T. Q. said in a low voice, not meeting her eyes.

She left him then, with his memories of his son, and with the bitter-sweet thought of that son's coming success.

When she reached her own bedroom at ten o'clock, Billy found Viola turning back the covers of her bed and laying out her things for the night.

"Miss Nyda she says can you come see her a minute before you go to sleep," Viola told her. "She still got a powerful bad headache."

"Tell her I'll come in about half an hour," Billy answered.

She wanted to think undisturbed about Clay and the wonderful things that were happening and about to happen to him. She had seen her mother that very day, had felt an unwelcome jealousy of her mother's fond delight in Clay, her pride in him.

"Clay has become more her own child than I am," Billy confessed to herself, then began to weep, forlornly.

The year which had promised to be so wonderful was nearly over. In less than a month the year of probation would be ended. Two girls would go back to hard work and poverty. If she were one of those two—and she had no earthly reason to believe that she, and not Winnie or Nyda, would be chosen for adoption by T. Q. Curtis—she would be really worse off than she had been at the beginning of the year.

After she had bathed, she resentfully wrapped a negligee about her for the duty to call upon Nyda Lomax.

"I was just dying to talk to someone," Nyda greeted her with unusual friendliness. "Sit down on the edge of the bed; I'll move over. I want you to help me plan a costume for the masquerade ball at the Country club."

The two girls talked for almost an hour. It was nearly half-past eleven when T. Q. Curtis knocked at the door, asked with kindly solicitude about Nyda's headache, and then called out his good nights in a cheerful voice.

"He's really a darling, isn't he?" Nyda asked lazily. "Which reminds me—I've got to study for a quiz tomorrow in kindergarten methods. Will you hand me my book off the desk? Oh, I forgot! I left it down in the library. I intended to study there after dinner tonight, to keep T. Q. company. Won't you get it for me before you go to bed, if you don't mind?"

Billy agreed readily, feeling more drawn to Nyda than she had been for months. The girl was really studying hard.

It was nearly twelve when Billy entered the library and switched on the light in a reading lamp on T. Q.'s desk. After a bit of searching she found Nyda's text-book on a little side table beside a wing chair; then it occurred to her that she had nothing in her own room with which to read herself to sleep. She went to the book shelves and scanned the titles of scores of books before she found one that appealed to her mood.

As she stooped to open the glass doors of that section of the book case, a loop of blue heads which served to fasten her negligee caught on the knob of the case and broke. One of the bright crystal spheres rolled out of sight under the bookcases, and she went down on hands and knees to grope for it. It was then that she realized it must have rolled quite a distance, to that section of the book cases that opened by pressure of a secret spring to reveal the wall safe in which T. Q. kept private papers, the girls' jewelry and his unset diamonds.

Without hesitation, she pressed upon it, watched the section of the book case swing slowly outward.

She was on her knees before the safe, picking up the strayed blue head, and looking for any other that might have dropped, too, when the voice of Sawyer, the butler, started her.

"That you, Miss Billy?" he called from the doorway. "Then his eyes narrowed with suspicion as he saw that she had been kneeling before the exposed wall safe."

"I came down for a book for Miss Lomax, and broke the fastening on my robe," she explained rather breathlessly. "I was looking for one of the beads."

When she was again in her room, after having delivered Nyda's book to her, she went to stand in the window she had opened for the night, her pet cheeks grateful for the rush of wintry air. Why had she acted like a thief caught in the act, she asked herself disgustedly. Her thoughts were broken into suddenly by the faint sound of a familiar whistle. She leaned far out of the window, her heart beating fast with sudden, wild joy. That was Dal's signal. He had come back! And he wanted to see her. He could not even wait until morning. She stretched out her arms into the coldness of the night and then ran to dress.

In the next chapter T. Q. Curtis is robbed of his diamonds, and Billy is accused of the theft.

DRY AGENTS' FEES MUST GO TO STATE

Attorney General Says Prohibition Agents Can't Keep Money

Madison (P)—Prohibition Commissioner R. W. Dixon was informed in an opinion from the attorney general Monday that his deputies are making to collect the regular fees for oblique arrests and serving warrants, but that the fees would have to be turned over to the state treasurer as state funds.

In another opinion the attorney general held that after March 15 an automobile owner cannot be arrested for not having his automobile duly registered if application for the registration has been made. This opinion answered a question from district attorney N. B. Langill, Marinette-co.

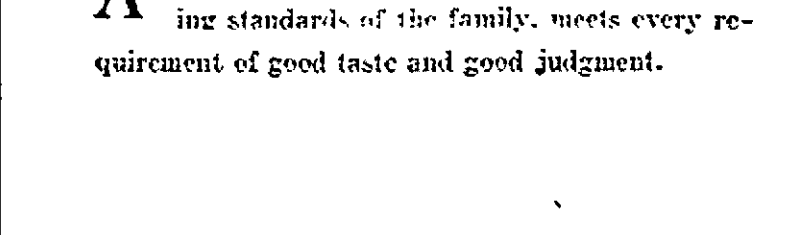

The salary of an undersheriff may be changed by an annual meeting of the county board and such salary change may become effective immediately thereafter, said another opinion, issued to District Attorney John A. Thiel, Dodge-co.

Another opinion virtually gave grocery stores of the state permission to sell certain commodities that are regularly obtained in drug store. The opinion held that a patented laxative as described to the attorney general could legally be sold by the grocers, as it was not strictly a drug. The law is that merchants other than legalized druggists must not sell drugs.

In an opinion to R. M. Orchard, district attorney at Lancaster, the attorney general held that a hunting or trapping license was not necessary for digging foxes out of their holes, as this constituted neither trapping them or killing them with a gun.

ASSEMBLY FACES LONG CALENDAR AT SESSION TONIGHT

More Than Fifty Bills Will Be
Up for Consideration of Lawmakers

Madison—(P)—There are ten pages to the assembly calendar Monday night. That means there are more than half a hundred bills up for consideration.

From among these is the Swanson bill for a bank depositors' guaranty fund. The bill is not in the form in which it was introduced by the author, a substitute amendment, practically another measure, having been recommended for passage by the committee on insurance and banking. The original bill provided for establishment of a fund from but one portion of the assets of the banks of the state; the substitute takes a portion of the fund from two sections of the banks' monies.

There are two bills on the calendar which have been voted by the governor and are up for the second passage or refusal. One is the Duncan—interim committee bill abolishing special counsel for state departments.

The bill appropriating $2,500 to the superintendent of public property for purchase of a second automobile for the governor is up for engrossment, along with appropriations for the secretary of state, department of engineering and executive department.

Assemblyman Larson's bill introduced for the interim committee, raising the gasoline tax to 3 cents and making changes in the classifications of motor vehicles for registration, is recommended for indefinite postponement. There are twelve other bills with the same recommendation.

Senator Polakowski's measure for an interim committee investigation of labor conditions at the state penitentiary is up for third reading.

Among the bills up for final passage or concurrence is the one by Senator Roethe calling for only "appropriate exercises" in schools of the state on Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays and other holidays, instead of recesses for the school children.

16 CASES ARE LISTED ON COUNTY COURT CALENDAR

Sixteen cases are scheduled for hearing at a special term of Outagamie county court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann on Tuesday. The calendar: Hearings on proof of will in the estates of William Schultz, Bertha Kneipel, Petronella De Witt and Christian Fetting; hearing on petition for administration in the estate of Pauline Schlosser; hearings on petition for guardian for William Schultz and Herbert Cameron; hearings on preferred claims in the estates of Sarah Kreiss Wisner and Louisa Meltzer; hearings on general claims in the estates of Harriet Vander Welden, Edward Wern, Fred Lenz, Henry Geenen and Frances Bruckberger. Hearings on final account in the estates of John C. Cameron and Katharina Lohman.

APPLETON FIRM WANTS TO BUILD RACINE SCHOOL

This is the second bidding. The first bids were discarded and the plans and specifications were revised. The school is a three story, brick fireproof building.

G'WAN DON'T KID HIM!

ED WYNN AND CHESTER CONKLIN IN A SCENE FROM "RUBBER HEELS" TO BE SHOWN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY AT FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE.

State May Properly Be Called "Old Wisconsin"

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin may rightly be called "Old Wisconsin," as an endearing term, the state historical society holds.

"Old Virginia," "Old Massachusetts," and "Old Pennsylvania" are popular names for those states, the Society's office here says, and in recent years the residents of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and even the comparatively new Idaho, are prefixing a venerable "Old" before their state's name when speaking of it away from home.

The Badger state may be called "Old Wisconsin" because of "several claims to remarkable antiquity," according to the society. "Everyone knows that the Frenchman, Jean Nicolet landed on our shores in 1634, only fourteen years after the landing of the Pilgrims and nearly half a century before William Penn founded the colony of Pennsylvania. Other incidents in the history of exploration, missionary effort and trade bring home to us the thought that Wisconsin is not so youthful as she sometimes seems to us. The activities of Father Claude Allouez, the journey of Louis Joliet and Father Jacques Marquette, carry us back far into the century of American plantings.

"On the Wisconsin side of Lake Pepin near the town of that name, was once an old French post or blockhouse established for trade with the Indians. Its founder was Nicolas Perrot, who figured for many years as the agent of the French government in the territory destined to become Wisconsin, together with adjacent parts of Minnesota and Iowa.

"On Sunday the 8th of May was celebrated near Pepin and near the site of Perrot's Fort St. Antoine, the 238th anniversary of Perrot's act of 'Taking Possession' of the Northwest for Louis XIV, King of France. The original ceremony was reproduced, in costume, by students and teachers of the State Normal School at Eau Claire, in the presence of a great concourse of people who had come from far and near to witness the pageant. Local parties are now at work trying to identify the exact spot on which Perrot's fort was erected."

STAGE And SCREEN

ED WYNN'S FIRST FILM "RUBBER HEELS" FUNNY!

Whether you're addicted to leather soles or rubber heels, you'll have a hard time refraining from laughing when you see "Rubber Heels," the picture which reached Fischer's Appleton Theatre today. If the name, Ed Wynn means nothing to you now—just wait till you see "Rubber Heels." But if you've ever seen Wynn on the stage, we dare you to keep away.

For those fortunate few who know his work, let us say that he's never been better. Along with Eddie Cantor and W. C. Fields, fellow stage comics "come cinematic" Wynn can well afford to spend the rest of his days before motion picture cameras.

"Rubber Heels" is one of those things we too seldom see, a genuinely funny comedy. As Amos Wart, Wynn comes to the front like a (to pardon our pun) bump on a log. The proud possessor of a responsive school's diploma, Amos goes out in the cold world, determining to demonstrate what real detecting is. He becomes involved with a gang of thieves who pose as private police. And—Chester Conklin is the master mind of this tricky organization. It's not hard to imagine the laughter which is apt to be forthcoming when this ridiculous duo get together.

Amos takes a job safeguarding a lot of jewels at a society reception and Conklin's gang, disguised as servants, escape with the whole casket. Then comes a chase to the city hall, a start from New York and finish at Niagara Falls, with laughs planted every foot of the way.

As a matter of record, Herman Heerman gets credit for a fine piece of comedy construction. Thelma Todd and Robert Andrews, two of the Paramount Picture School students, head Wynn's supporting cast. The story is an original by Ray Harris, Sam Mintz and Tom J. Crizer. J. Clarkon Miller prepared the screen play.

LYTELL AGAIN IN SUPER-CROOK ROLE

"Obey the Law" comes to the New Bijou today for three days. In the supporting cast are Eugene Gilbert, Edna May, Heddy Hopper, Larry Kent, William Welsh and Sarah Fadden. Al Raboch was the director.

Lyte, of course, is accepted as the most gifted actor in the world in this type of characterization. He gave life to that famous biam child of Louis Joseph Vance, "The Lone Wolf" in the Columbia production of "The Lone Wolf Returns."

In "Obey the Law" he portrays sardonic Harry Lyte, nimble-witted and nimble-fingered, smiling at life and laughing openly at death. He is the working partner of an older crook, whose daughter is an unsophisticated boarding school girl, unaware of her father's dappled career.

When the daughter appears unexpectedly on the scene while her father is completing a term in the penitentiary, it is the slave Lyte who keeps from the girl her father's plot, and who similarly accepts the responsibility for a "job" which sends him off between two detectives. There are, of course, powerful love scenes and a series of dramatic moments in the action.

PREPARE PLANS FOR SEWER ON BREWSTER-ST

Plans for a sanitary sewer on W. Brewster-st. from N. Division to N. Clarke-sts are being prepared at the city engineer's office in the city hall. The plans will be completed early this week and are to be submitted to the common council at the meeting Wednesday night.

SCHNEIDER INVITED TO FLOOD MEETING

All Wisconsin Flood Control and Conservation Conference to Meet

Congressman George J. Schneider received an invitation Saturday to attend the All Wisconsin Flood Control and Conservation conference which is to be held at Hotel Pfister, Milwaukee, June 20, 21 and 22. The conference is the result of a recent organization in Chicago of the Wisconsin delegates to the flood conference. The purpose is to formulate a definite program for the solution of the various problems involved in flood control on a national instead of a sectional or regional basis.

It is expected that a committee will be appointed at the conference in Milwaukee to prepare a brief setting forth its suggestions to be presented at the St. Louis hearings of the Mississippi flood commission which is to consider the problem. Sherman Brown, president of the Wisconsin division of the Izaak Walton league, is general chairman of the committee for arrangements for the meeting.

SCHNEIDER SPENDS WEEK IN NORTHERN COUNTIES

Congressman George J. Schneider returned to Appleton Saturday afternoon after spending the week in Door and Marinette cos. Mr. Schneider visited various communities in the two counties where he held personal conferences with those constituents who desired them. He expects to visit all the counties in his district.

EDUCATION IS MORE THAN MERE EQUIPMENT FOR EARNING LIVING

Wriston Tells Graduates That College Has Launched Them into Life

"Equipment for earning a living is not enough. Life must be conceived in broader terms. We should seek to lay up for ourselves treasures of the mind and of the spirit, a wealth of taste and appreciation, competence in thought and emotion, opulence in social effectiveness. We should think often of the enrichment of life — and give the phrase genuine contentment."

That is what Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college said in his address on "A Liberal Education at the annual commencement exercises at Lawrence college Monday morning at Lawrence Memorial chapel."

"A proper conception of education recognizes that life has many phases each with its own share of importance. We should seek through a lifetime of education that essential balance and proportion which makes the whole of life a rounded and meaningful experience."

The educational ideal "is to be forever busy at developing fresh fields and more exact standards of awareness, greater powers and better agencies for giving expression to our ideas."

The conception of life in economic terms separates the "making a living" from the rest of life, the speaker said. "It squeezes and narrows life into the rigid categories of work and play, eating and sleeping—as though work should not be play and play, work. It emphasizes the getting of gain rather than its use. If school and college have achieved their aim, the education you have just begun will look to every phase of your activity all your life long. To regard it as now complete would be to destroy it."

LIFE-LONG EDUCATION

Education should be a life-long enterprise, Dr. Wriston said. "An effort to become socially, aesthetically, spiritually, economically, and intellectually effective in all life's relationships."

"A narrow concept of education leads to gullibility. Too narrow a foundation of education will endanger belief and the political structure. Change often is feared in both yet the law of life is growth, and change is inevitable in any robust constitution."

Practical education is not that interpreted in economic terms alone, but that which recognizes "every mood and expression of nature in all its myriad forms, by every advance and dream of science, by every phase of beauty or emotional power in life."

ORDERS HIM TO LEAVE

crature, by all the accumulated wisdom and experience of the race."

Many of the social and personal ills of men have been due to a warped view of life, the president stated. Men have not recognized that business is more than production and profit that it is a force in the social and political and aesthetic life of the public. Men efficient in business often have neglected those "resources to make life fruitful in a social sense, to make their lives of value to the body politic. Narrowly intent upon economic progress they seek home life to go to wreck and ruin, the church becomes meaningless, the state appears a bottomless pit for taxes,—religion, politics, social life all seem dull or hostile. Art, music, literature, have no appeal—and nerves, strung taut by concentrated interest, snap. Life, itself, becomes a burden."

People "have fought to win prizes and have neglected gifts lying by the wayside." Men have pursued a special skill at the expense of living, and life has brought them poverty in the end, he asserted.

TO MUCH SPECIALIZATION

In this age when specialization is emphasized, "this demand for breadth, you may say, is the counsel for perfection." The dangers of becoming a dabbler and a dilettante, a jack of all trades at the expense of being a master of none have been urged. "There is some truth in this,—not the speaker believed. "The specialist is a compromise with necessity. His number is small. He may be described as one who takes a drill, and, boring through the wall of the unknown, undertakes thus to penetrate the secrets of our experience. Peering anxiously through the tiny apertures he has made, he tells of what he sees or suspects. Always he is in danger of narrowness of outlook. He has to point his drill to sharply for real breadth. Usually he tends to draw too many inferences from his new advance."

"The number of specialists is few and the places in life where they are safe are fewer than is ordinarily suspected, Dr. Wriston said. "It is not an accident that the expert usually has amateurs set over him." It has been recognized that "there must be men of broad judgment but without specialized competence to integrate the opinion of the expert with the experience and lives of other people."

As knowledge has grown, the facilities for its acquisition and its effective employment have grown. How many fields may be conquered is not known as people of a decade ago did not know the fields that have been mastered within recent years, he stated. "Thus many mysteries become essentially simplified as we study them under new lamps of knowledge. We are held to know more than ever before, because the world demands it; and we may know more than ever before."

This broad conception of education has become a social necessity, the speaker maintained. The problem of subsistence was so great when the pioneers came to this country that it took the major part of their effort.

Thus progress in that respect has outstripped social, spiritual and aesthetic progress, and even political competence, the speaker continued. The fabric of life has been rent by these circumstances and it must now be drawn together to make an even tension upon its warp and woof. Synthesis of life should, be the specialty of this generation of people rather than analysis.

NEED BROAD VIEWPOINT

"In international life there is the same need for a point of view more broad, more catholic, than ever before," Dr. Wriston said. Each interest group has sought to interpret the problems of international relations in its own terms. They have regarded their solutions, always and without exception over-simple ones, as adequate." Prejudice, bitterness and strife have arisen through these differences of interpretation. And in domestic life, as long as group rivalry rather than their complementary character and fundamental community of interest, is emphasized, the divisions will be perpetuated. "No issue is more actively before us today than that of toleration. The attitude toward education for which I am pleading is the only foundation for toleration. It may fairly be said that the range of our comprehension is the measure of our toleration. The so-called toleration of the man who does not know and does not care, is only slumbering prejudice."

CURE FOR RADICALISM

To cure radicalism, the president recommended perspective, and this type of education would make it possible to take a view of the whole situation and to see it in all its bearings and relationships, he believed.

The point of view of the speaker was not presented "in a spirit which mocks at economic progress, for I believe that breadth is of the greatest value for our economic advancement."

Most people choose their vocations by falling into a groove scarcely knowing what other possibilities there may be, never realizing their own potentialities. Their interests are narrowed by their tasks and the groove chafes as it grows deeper. "A broader vision sends imagination winging off to far horizons and opens for us new fields of interests. Our adjustments to the problems of life work become more natural and consequently more effective."

FUNCTION OF COLLEGE

"If you ever rise above the narrow, routine, you will have need of more than one competence." There is scope for imagination and diverse information and the play of broad intelligence in business and in all other enterprises, Dr. Wriston stated.

"Education, thus conceived, furnishes for us surer foundations of courage. The access of fear in our lives are a fair measure of our ignorance."

"The function of a college is not to complete a process, but finally to launch it. We have sought to induce you to test your capacities for impression and expression in many fields, to introduce you to a wide range of knowledge and experience. These introductions are analogous to those of ordinary social intercourse," the president concluded. "You are not educated, but your feet have been set upon the path. Unless you walk that path, weeds will grow and it will become obliterated. Confucius said, 'To learn, and forever to review what one has learned, this is real joy.'"

WALTONS FIND GOOD MUSKELONGE WATERS

6,000 Young "Muskie" Plant in Lake Minocqua and Near by Streams

Minocqua—(P)—Within a comparatively short time Wisconsin's Lake Walton will discover an abundance of good muskellunge fishing in the waters of Lake Minocqua and near by streams. Six thousands young "muskie" were planted in the lake during the last week, with Robert Rippe in charge of the state hatchery near Woodruff supervising the work, assisted by H. L. Jenkinson and Frank Miller, Lake Minocqua Waltonians.

Mr. Rippe, who has made a life study of the work of propagating muskellunge, says he has had "wonderful luck in hatching the eggs of the tiger of fresh water fish," although it has been but a few years since artificial propagation of this fish was considered impossible.

This year approximately 200,000 "muskie" were hatched at the Woodruff hatchery. Of these, 2,000 will be put into ponds and carefully cared for for several months. Last year more than 1,700 of the young "tiger fish" were sorted out of the pools where they had been kept during the summer. All during the summer season, Mr. Rippe kept two men busy gathering insects and minnows to be fed to the "muskie."

The problem in propagating this fish, according to Mr. Rippe, lies chiefly in securing possession of the parent fish. If the season happens to be cold or backward, the fish go into deep water and it is almost impossible to catch them.

The muskellunge is not the only recipient of the Waltonians' attention. Nine millions of young pike have also been planted in the waters of the Lake Minocqua region.

Peters, 800 cubic yards of crushed rock delivered on Waupaca-st., $1,600; Len Kioehn, road work on Waupaca-st., village hall telephone rental for May, $342; and Fremont Telephone Co., $157.

The white or silver bass have returned from spawning in the upper Wolf river and are biting unusually good here. Fishing will be good for a week or more while the bass are returning to larger waters for the summer. Weather conditions have been ideal when the bass come up river, they swim near the bottom, requiring deep water fishing with shiner minnows as the usual bait. Long thin bamboo poles with elastic ends on which the line is tied, are effective in "swimming" the minnow which lures the fish.

Pickered plugs (wooden minnows) are trolled over the surface of the water in catching the bass when they return from the river. When a strike is made the bass put up a fight. And every fisherman is assured of a which furnishes sport to the angler, good catch in the Wolf river at Fremont.

Real Bargains In Real Estate

—For Real Hustlers

When the owner of business or residential property finds it necessary to sell his holding, what is the first thing he thinks of?

Naturally—of putting an ad in the Real Estate columns of the Post-Crescent's A-B-C Classified Section.

When said owner's position demands that he raise immediate cash by making an immediate sale, what does he do?

Absolutely—he names the very lowest price!

The reasons why there are so many real estate bargains in the Classified Section are so obvious as anything very well could be.

And it's equally obvious that when you want to buy real estate there's only one place to go—to the A-B-C Classified Section.

ATTENDANCE AT WEEK DAY BIBLE SCHOOL GROWING More Than Twice as Many Pupils Enrolled Now as in First Year

More than twice as many pupils were enrolled in the Appleton Week Day Bible school this year than in its first year, 1922, according to the report made to the executive board of the school. The cost per pupil has been reduced to one third of its original cost. In 1922, the budget was $1,350 and the enrollment was 150 pupils. With a cost per pupil of $10.10, in 1926 and 1927, the budget was $1,300, the enrollment 375, and the cost per pupil, $3.46. The enrollment last year was 325 which was a satisfactory increase, the director stated.

An urge was made for increase in the budget for next year as "an expanding program with a static budget must ultimately have to be adjusted." The past year was completed within the allotted budget although the change from all classes in the Y. M. C. A. to classes in four places made it difficult to adjust teaching arrangements without additional help, Dr. Denyes said.

"If the school is to grow it is inevitable that some increase be made in the budget. With an increase of approximately 10 per cent in the budget the whole present field of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades could be covered."

The aim of the week day Bible school is two fold, the director said. "First to set before the minds of growing children those qualities which we want to find in the men and women of the future, and to set them forth frequently enough and attractively enough so that they will become their philosophy of life. And secondly to give to the children such a body of Biblical information that they will understand the historical background of the beautiful picture of God as revealed through Jesus Christ."

Even with the increase in attendance this year, the school has not reached its full constituency, the director believed. The long distances which some of the children had to travel prohibited attendance especially in cold weather. A desirable advance was made possible this year, he stated, when the board of education granted permission to hold the Bible classes in unoccupied rooms of the McKinley, First ward and Lincoln schools. It relieved congestion at the Y. M. C. A. and added to the efficiency of the teaching since the children did not have to walk as far, and the class room equipment was available.

Regular teachers at the school were: Mrs. H. K. Pratt, Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. C. A. Warner and Mrs. P. F. Stallman. Students at Lawrence college who were studying for the teaching profession have assisted. Mrs. J. R. Denyes served as assistant director caring for much of the class room supervision and teaching part of the time.

A gift of $125 will be used to purchase lantern slides illustrating the stories in the fourth and fifth grades. The method will be to teach the children two consecutive stories and then at the third class period show pictures illustrating the two lessons learned.

For the past four years, lantern slides have been shown at intervals to illustrate mission needs in foreign lands in order to awaken the spirit of world brotherhood, the director explained. Great interest has been shown in the pictures and it is believed a similar interest will come with the illustrated lessons. An increased enrollment is expected by Dr. Denyes with the introduction of the lantern slides.

Conferences of religious education have been attended by the directors, and they believe the program mapped out by the school offers as large a value in view of the time at the disposal of the school as any suggested. The

MERCHANTS ARE WARNED TO KEEP DOORS LOCKED

Merchants last week were urged by Capt. P. J. Vaughn, acting chief of the police department, to exercise more care in locking their doors at the close of the day's business places throughout the city, making it a comparatively easy matter for burglars to enter the buildings, Capt. Vaughn pointed out.

Police officers are instructed to try the doors of all business places every night to see if they are locked. Doors found open are locked by the officer if he has a key to fit, or by the owner of the building, who is notified by the policeman.

A few merchants recently have been inviting petty thieves to permit them to break in and remain outside all night, usually in the rear of their establishments. This practice not only is encouraging a loss to the merchant, but is a means of increasing the number of thefts and burglaries in the city, it was said.

LOCAL GIRL WRITES GOOD ESSAY IN NATIONAL TEST

Miss Helen Kohl, a student at St. Joseph school, wrote the best essay on the American constitution in this locality entered in the contest sponsored by the National Republic, a national magazine published in Washington, D. C.

Thousands of essays were submitted by students in every state in the Union, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The prize of $500 for the best essay written by a high school student went to a Louisville, Ky., boy. The $500 prize in the grade school contest was won by a girl pupil at Miamami, N. D.

Miss Kohl's essay treated on the religious freedom guaranteed by the constitution.

Bible is used as the curriculum material. The approach is historical. In the three years of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades the significant stories of the Bible are covered in the Old and New Testament.

Inventor Of Typewriter Sold Product For $10,000

Madison —(P)—Christopher Sholes, credited with being the inventor of the typewriter, died at the age of 81, a millionaire, after a life of struggle and finally succeeded when he sold the product for $10,000.

Sholes, who conceived the invention in a little Milwaukee workshop, in 1867, also chose as his first trial sentence the familiar "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party," chiefly because a political campaign was being carried on when he completed the first typewriter.

The story of the invention is related in the current issue of the Wisconsin Magazine by C. V. Sullivan and contains the statement that Sholes "felt he had done something for the women who have always had to work so hard" when he enabled them "more easily to make a living."

Mr. Sholes was born in Columbia, Pa., February 14, 1819. At the age of fourteen, after serving his apprenticeship in the printing trade in Danville, Pa., he joined his brother, Charles C. Sholes, then living in Green Bay and well known in the early politics of Wisconsin. A frail constitution, with a tendency to consumption, of which he finally died in Milwaukee in 1890, seems to have influenced his early removal to what was then a wild region at the end of the great pine forest. In 1838, after living for one year in

APPLETON BANKERS GET NEW BOND ISSUE

New Government Bond Issue of June 15 Expected to Exceed Billion

Appleton bankers have been notified by Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon that new government bonds will be issued on June 15, which may be obtained by the public for cash, in exchange for Second Liberty Loan bonds or the "J" issue of treasury certificates, subject to the conditions of the new issue.

The government's new bond issue will run into the billions since $200,000,000 in these bonds is being issued for cash in addition to the bonds being issued to take up the $1,700,000,000 in Second Liberty Loan bonds callable Nov. 15, 1927, and all of the treasury certificates of indebtedness of the issue maturing June 15 of the current year.

The new United States bonds will be dated June 15, 1927 and are to run for 20 years, bearing interest at the rate of 3 3/8 per cent. They will be due in 1947 but are callable in 1943. The Second Liberty Loan bonds on and after June 15 will be exchangeable into the new government issue par for par. If purchased for cash, the price of the new bonds is $10.50, which means a premium of one-half point for the holders of Liberty seconds. The government also agrees to an adjustment of accrued interest on the Second Liberty Loan bonds up to June 15, which means that full interest on the Liberty bonds exchanged for the new issue will be paid up to that date.

In the case of the treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing on June 15, these certificates will be accepted at par for part payment for cash subscriptions on the new issue. This means that the holder of a $100 certificate can exchange it for a $100 bond of the new issue upon payment of the 50 cents difference in the purchase price of the bond and the par value of the certificate, etc.

Officials of local banks announced that they will offer every assistance possible to customers and others wishing to exchange their Liberty bonds or treasury certificates for bonds of the new issue.
